While Benjamin Haggerty, 24 years old, of 184 Centre street, and Michael Quinlan, years old, of Tenth street between Secand Third avenues, Brooklyn, were engaged early vesterday morning in robbing he saloon of Patrick Ryan at 461 Columbia treet, Haggerty shot his pal in the heart, killing him instantly.

According to the story of the survivor. he had no intention of harming his companion, and had forgotten that the weapon was loaded when he fired the fatal shot. Both young burglars were members of gang of solderers, in Red Hook Point, who go around the city collecting old tin cans and after melting off the solder sell it. About 2:20 o'clock yesterday morning they broke into Ryan's saloon by forcing side door A tenant on the second floor heard them at work, but was too frightened o make any attempt to disturb them. After listening to them moving about the and whispering to each other for nearly an hour, he opened the window and whistled loudly three or four times so as to attract the notice of a policeman if one should happen to be around.

Just as he withdrew from the window with the intention of taking other measures to scare off the marauders, he was startled by the report of a pistol in the saloon.
Returning to the window, he again whistled and shouted, and while looking out saw a young man without coat or waistcoat run from the side door of the saloon.

Policeman John T. C'Connor, hearing the noise, arrived in front of the saloon couple of minutes after one of the burglars had taken flight. Entering the saloon through the side door he found Quinlan lying dead behind the bar with a bullet

O'Connor quickly notified the Richards street police station of the escape of the second burglar, and in a few minutes Capt. Summers and his reserves were scouring the precinct for the fugitive. The credit for the capture, however, belongs to O'Connor, who about an hour after the shooting came across Haggerty as he was walking along Henry street pear Bush street, in the direction of his ne, without coat or waistcoat. "Do you know Quinlan?" asked O'Connor. Haggerty at first denied all knowledge out finally coolly remarked: Well, Quinlan's dead, and I'se de chicken

Now Has Two Names. YONKERS, N. Y., July 18 .- By the chivalry of New York Central Railroad officials Yonkers Park on the New York and Harlem Railroad retains its name. School Commissioner William R. Watson started a movement to change the name of the place. Public meetings were held by those tho favored the scheme and the name "Crestwood" was selected. Opposition to the change developed and Mrs. Carolyn A. Dow, widow of one of the original derelopers of the park, opposed the proposed change. When a petition was sent to the Yorkers Board of Aldermen to permit the change of name, Mrs. Dow combatted the arguments of Mr. Watson. The Alderheld another meeting and this time

Mrs. Dow was defeated.

Mrs. Dow obtained an interview with the railroad authorities and secured pledges from them that the name Yonkers Park would remain. All efforts to have the railroad officials alter their determination to change the name of the depot have failed and the name used in the announcements of the trainmen and on the time tables as ell as the sign on the depot is still Yonkers

The place is officially designated by the Idermen as Crestwood and both names are being used. Feeling is intense and letters have appeared from both sides in the local papers. Two prominent citizens of Yonkers Park came to blows as a result of the differences.

CLAIM OF CAYUGA INDIANS.

Trying to Establish Title to 100 Square Miles of Land at Cayuga Lake.

ITHACA, N. Y., July 18 .- The remnant of the once powerful tribe of Cavuga Indians is again trying to establish its claim to 100 square miles of valuable land near the northern end of Cayuga Lake. Two of the three chiefs of the tribe visited the office of the Cayuga County Clerk at Auburn in the endeavor to find some trace of the treaties upon which the Indians base their claim to the land.

It is asserted by the red men that when the Indians of the Cayuga tribe were driven West and saw that their hopes of resisting the inroads of the white men were fruitless a treaty was made by which 100 square niles of land bordering on the east and west banks of Cayuga Lake at its northern end were given to them. This grant included the land where now stands the village of Union Springs, and also the town of Ledyard and part of Aurelius on the east shore of the ake, and much more on the west bank.

Years have passed since the grant was rears nave passed since the grant was made and the Cayugas are now with the Serecas on a reservation near Buffalo. The Indiars claim that they held the land under a ninety-year lease, which has just expired, or is about to expire, and word has come to them that they are entitled to a certain part of this land. County Clerk Berham had no records to help them and referred them to the records at Albany, where are kept the treaties and other State papers that had to do with the Indians and

INVENTOR SUES EX-GOV. BROWN. FIXED WITNESSES, SAYS ISELIN Wants $1,500 More of a $5,000 Fund

BALTIMORE, July 18 .- Competing for a prize with a device for pouring oil on roubled waters, former Gov. Frank Brown and Col. Lewin Lake disagreed, and as a result suit was begun in the Court of Common Pleas this morning by William Colton, attorney in behalf of Col. Lake, who claims balance of $1,500 on account. Col. Lake is a marine engineer and contractor. He and Gov. Lake's promise to remain in Paris three months, or as much thereof as was necessary, and devote his labor and skill to the Pollock contest for the purpose of landing the 100,000 francs. There is some doubt as to whether the contest ever took place, but, at all events, the prize was not given to Col. Lake.

Ex-Gov. Brown, the bill says, did pay $3,500 on account and the plaintiff desires the other $1,500, which he alleges was a part of the agreement.

William F. Vizer, a young Englishman who arrived from Liverpool on July 15 in the first cabin of the White Star liner Majestic, has been ordered by the Ellis Island authorities to be deported. He declared that he was confidential clerk of the Produce Brokers' Company of London, and that he had been sent to this country to open a branch office in Savannah. His passage money was paid by his employers. He pointed out that if he were excluded under the contract labor laws they practically debarred foreign merchints and manufacturers from establishing branches of their business here.

Vizer, through his counsel, has appealed to Washington. The case of the Greek current expert, which has been appealed to the United States Supreme Court, is somewhat similer. Washington probably will sustain the decision of the Ellis Island officials in Vizer's case. Meanwhile he will be paroled in custody of his lawyer.

INCIDENT ON THE HEARING OF CHARGES AGAINST BOLTE.

Mr. Jerome's Counsel Specifies That He Doesn't Mean That Either Justice Bolte or Deputy Attorney-General Blumenthal Has Personally Fixed Anybody.

Assistant District Attorney Iselin, who is prosecuting District Attorney Jerome's charges against Municipal Justice Herman A. Bolte, and Lawyer Maurice B. Blumen thal, counsel for Justice Bolte, had a lively little tiff yesterday morning whil Referee William H. Willis was taking further testimony in the case in his office at 115 Broadway. After several witnesses had been called by the prosecution, without much material evidence having been adduced, Mr. Iselin murmured something abou fixed witnesses.

"What's that?" demanded Mr. Blumenthal "I say that that will be about all for today," said the Assistant District Attorney "It is rather hard to carry on a case in the face of the fixing of witnesses.

"Withdraw that remark," shouted Mr Blumenthal. "I ask the referee to have the remark put on the minutes and then stricken out. I ask the referee to direct the prosecutor to prove the truth of his assertions."

"Gentlemen," said Referee Willis, "that vill be enough. I wish this hearing to proseed in an orderly manner."

"I don't say that Mr. Blumenthal or his client has tampered with any of my witnesses," said Mr. Iselin; "but witnesses have been fixed-that I know; and I won't withdraw the remark." And so the incident closed.

William J. McArthur, a lawyer, of 16 Court street, Brooklyn, was the first witness yesterday. He testified that Justice Bolte, in his opinion, conducted his court in a manner radically different from other courts. He cited one instance where Juscours. He cited one instance where Jus-tice Bolte had dismissed a case because there was no bill of particulars. He had had a case in Bolte's court, he said, and was unable to get it off the foot of the calendar for several days. Finally his client won the case by the non-appearance of the plaintiff, but he could not get costs.

of the plaintiff, but he could not get costs. Asked if he knew Aaron Morris, he said:
"Morris was counsel in a case while I was waiting in Justice Bolte's court. A lawyer for the other side protested that he would decline to try the case unless Mr Morris retired, because, he said, it was notorious that no lawyer had any chance against Morris when Justice Bolte presided."

Former Municipal Justice John Callahan Former Municipal Justice John Callanan, called as a witness by the prosecution, didn't appear to know anything about the case that would sustain the prosecution. When Mr. Blumenthal, on crossexamination, asked him what he thought of Justice Bolte, he replied:

"I was a Judge of a District Court for six years and I have practised in those courts for forty years. It is my opinion that Justice Bolte is as good as any of them."

hem." Lawyer Cæsar B. F. Barra of 320 Broad way, Julius Harburger, a clerk in Justice Bolte's court, and Leo Lerner, a lawyer, of 70 Rivington street also testified. After a two hours' session Referee Willis put the hearing over until Wednesday morning. Justice Bolte was present at the hearing, but took no part in the proceedings. Dis-
